How delivery is organized

Rushmore Integrated Solutions LLC provides the U.S. contracting and customer-coordination interface. Work in Jordan draws on Rushmore Transportation & Logistics Services, the parent company, and agreed providers. Each quotation identifies the contracting entity, performing parties, scope, resources and acceptance requirements.

Selected Experience and Recognition

The following work was performed or contracted by Rushmore Transportation & Logistics Services in Jordan, including subcontract delivery. It is distinct from the U.S. company's own contracting history.

Recurring rentals and fleet management

More than 1,500 rental bookings are recorded as completed in the Jordan operating register reviewed in October 2026. This measures booking activity, not vehicles owned, unique vehicles or simultaneous deployment. Service records and references describe handovers, recurring billing, maintenance coordination, roadside assistance, accident follow-up and return.

Pickup rental assignments

A 90-day full-size pickup rental is supported by an agreement and 2026 invoices. A subsequent six-pickup agreement covers a six-month rental term in 2026–2027, with insurance, routine maintenance and replacement provisions. The later term is ongoing, not presented as completed work.

Staff accommodation and operational logistics

Jordan-company subcontract work includes staff housing, utilities and related supplier coordination. A 2025 recommendation describes lodging, travel, vehicle rentals, equipment procurement and construction support over a three-year relationship spanning earlier founder work and Rushmore Jordan. Its statement of fulfilled contracts exceeding $150,000 is a reference-letter statement, not independently audited revenue.

Three regional evacuation logistics assignments

Rushmore Jordan managed ground transport, accommodation, airport arrangements, border-crossing liaison and operational follow-up through completion with a specialist response partner. This was delivery of the logistics scope; specialist tactical rescue activities were outside Rushmore's role.

Civilian vehicle supply for ambulance support

Three civilian passenger vans supplied with pre-delivery inspection, warranty documentation and delivery coordination. Handover was acknowledged in September 2026. Medical conversion was outside Rushmore's supplied scope.

Specialist mobile-container project

A 2026 awarded project covers design, construction, equipment sourcing, transport and documentation for a specialist mobile-container system. Final completion is not claimed.

Moving and furniture-cleaning agreements

Separate service frameworks cover moving and furniture cleaning during 2025–2028. Work is ordered individually; the agreements do not establish completed orders, guaranteed purchases or earned revenue.

Recommendations and leadership experience

Short excerpts below retain the original English wording. Names, organizations and identifying operational details are withheld.

Rental service flexibility

“He also offers exceptional flexibility in both contract and ease of renting vehicles.”
Major — 2024 recommendation describing Rushmore Jordan rental services.

Responsive operational support

“No matter the time of day, he consistently provided assistance”
Captain — 2025 recommendation describing services through Rushmore Jordan.

Earlier leadership experience

A 2022 appreciation letter documents the founder’s coordination of vehicle-rental services and provision of more than 100 vehicles for a large event, before either Rushmore entity was established. The original letter and its translation are one reference. A 2006 recognition record documents earlier rental-operations leadership.

Professional recognition

Appreciation and achievement records from 2023–2024 recognize operational support, including the relationship with Rushmore Jordan. Commemorative and challenge coins are retained discreetly as professional recognition. These records are not professional certifications, government endorsement or procurement approval.

What this means for your requirement

Documented handovers, recurring service administration and practical logistics follow-up provide a basis for scoping new work. We coordinate customer requirements, supplier responsibilities and delivery records through the agreed contracting arrangement. Subcontract roles and earlier leadership experience are identified accurately.
